

Mr. Nice Guy

Funny? Check. Handsome? Sensitive? Check, check. Greg Kinnear wins us over in The Last Song.

In this movie...

I play a concert pianist. The piano instructor who worked with me on the set saw me play and instantly wanted to break my fingers.

Costarring with Miley Cyrus...

Was like working with the Beatles. Everywhere I went people would jump out with a "Where's Miley?" sign. I thought I'd worked with famous people before, but she's famous.

Working in the South...

We filmed on Tybee Island, Georgia, off the coast of Savannah. People in the South are so nice that if you were casting them in a movie, you'd say, "Nasty it up a bit because there's no way anyone's that nice."

Favorite family vacation...

We're always up for an adventure [Kinnear and his wife have two daughters, ages 6 and 3]. Last summer we went to Idaho and did some white-water rafting. Our daughters got all Tom Sawyer on us.

Biggest splurge...

Beach towels. I'm a simple boy from Indiana. I don't have a Jacuzzi in the back of my Bentley with a pet Afghan dog floating around in it.

How I do good...

I answered phones at the Hope for Haiti Now telethon. I spoke to a single mother of four who said she was sorry she couldn't give more, but she had just lost her job. People have been so generous—it's heroic.

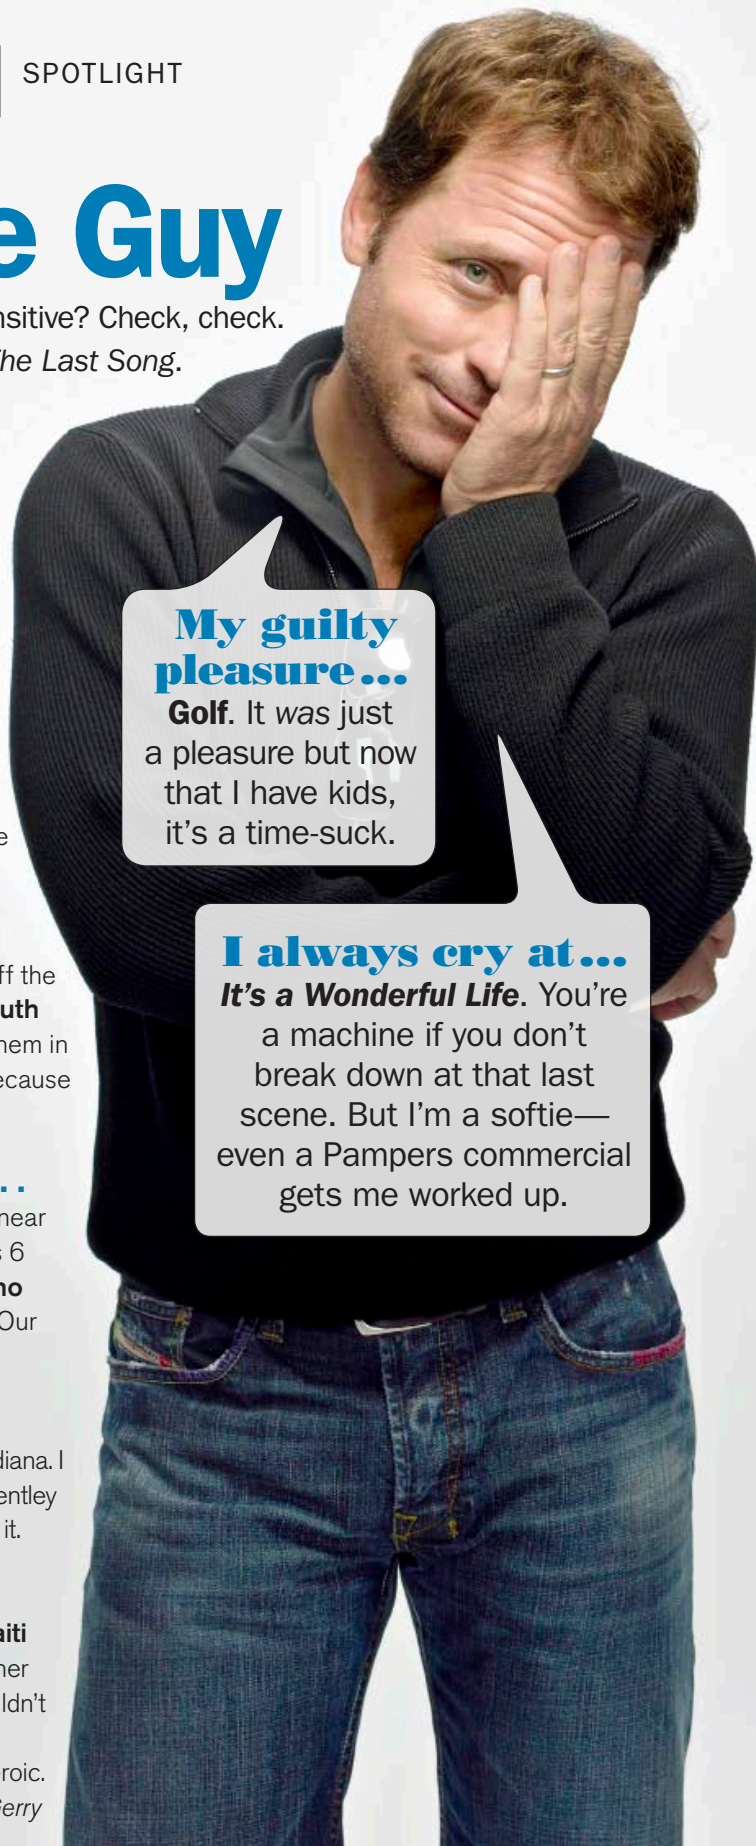

—Lisa M. Gerry

My guilty pleasure...

Golf. It was just a pleasure but now that I have kids, it's a time-suck.

I always cry at...

It's a Wonderful Life. You're a machine if you don't break down at that last scene. But I'm a softie—even a Pampers commercial gets me worked up.
